With A zonked out
on sleeping pills,

He drove to B.

Returning when
she so slowly woke.

Seven days a week.
An independent consultant,

he worked from both homes.
And when A almost decided to break off the pills, proved

warm and supportive and completely loving.

But agreed with physicians, “No.”
Not a hypocritical decision:

Hardly a Republican.

And when he died--had fought

a lifetime disease--both

women got their homes,
and equal amounts
of cash and stocks.

Best of friends...now.

More things in Heaven and Earth

than are dreamt of
in your philosophy.

Hamlet being right-on,
his time and ours.
